

Launch your own SOC Operation with Assuria

Would you like to own your own SOC Operation and deliver cyber security monitoring, detection and response (MDR) services to a market that urgently needs your help?

As one of a select group of SOC Partners, Assuria can bootstrap your company into the huge SME and mid-enterprise managed security services market within weeks, with the lowest possible up-front investment.

Public sector and mid-sized organisations need effective and affordable MDR services, preferably delivered by providers with which they already have a trusted relationship and which understand the needs of their businesses. If you're local to them, even better!

If yours is an established business in security consulting, compliance, IT services and support, security device management, security solutions sales or a range of other key services, your existing customers already like doing business with you. They trust you. There has never been a better time to add this SOC and MSSP capability to your business.

As one of Assuria's close community of Regional SOC partners, you'll be able to offer managed security monitoring, vulnerability assessment, compliance and threat hunting services to your customers at the lowest possible cost and using highly respected and proven technology. You'll be helping to protect their Cloud, On-premise and Hybrid IT infrastructures and reducing their data protection and cyber security risks.

In this SOC Partner programme, Assuria not only provides its innovative Multi-tenant SOC Platform and integrated suite of proven Enterprise class security monitoring solutions, out-of-the-box security controls, operational dashboards and proven threat intelligence feeds, but also a comprehensive package of operational procedures and tools, technical support, marketing materials, business planning support and training. We even help you with initial sales campaigns.

Assuria's SIEM, FIM, Vulnerability Assessment and SOC Management technologies are proven with major government and commercial customers worldwide. They offer the lowest possible annual licence costs, with Zero data volume fees, allowing our partners to deliver these essential services to their clients at the lowest possible cost.

Our shared commercial risk model means that once established, your SOC operation only incurs SOC software licence costs in line with your growing managed service revenues, and you'll have a close and un-paralleled technical support and future development relationship with Assuria, which owns and develops its own SOC technology stack.
